Labayen Dance/SF

DANCE FUSION

Acclaimed local choreographer Enrico Labayen opens the month-long Amnesty International Human Rights Arts Festival—which takes place at venues throughout the city—with six masterful pieces of modern dance.

Since 1991, The LAB Projeckt Group-USA creatively integrated ballet, American modern dance, and Asian ritual gesture to generate a dynamic new dance performance. Now named Labayen Dance/SF, founder Enrico Labayen's rechristened group makes its debut performance with four of this fine choreographer's repertory works, plus two Bay Area premieres.

Born and raised in the Philippines, to which he has returned on occasion for spiritual and cultural renewal, Enrico Labayen has long worked to fuse modern Western dance methods with the traditional movements of his home country. He has performed with American Ballet Theatre, Alvin Ailey, SF Dance Spectrum, and LINES Contemporary Ballet, and was declared 1981's Dancer of the Year by the Beaux Arts Society of New York.

The current four-day run features five popular works previously performed by The LAB Projekt-USA. Opening the evening is Quatro, a contemporary ballet danced to Shostakovich. At its premiere in Germany, the Neue Westfälische Zeitung called it "an erotic power play between the sexes." Damas, an exploration of feminine power and strength, is set to the music of Arvo Part and Henryk Gorecki.

Labayen himself performs in his signature pas de deux Cloth, a work inspired by the Song of Songs from the Hebrew Bible. He returns for the Bay Area premiere of Another Butterfly, a solo piece about metamorphosis and resistance to change. Closing the concert is Puirt a Beul, a multimedia work mixing Celtic music with extreme physical dance.

Cloth and Puirt a Beul were both nominated for the Isadora Duncan Outstanding Achievement in Choreography Awards.

Also scheduled is the premiere performance of a new work by noted dancer Fabrice Lemire, who has worked with the acclaimed dance company Donald Byrd's The Group. Daphnis and Chloe is a pas de deux featuring Labayen Dance/SF members Laura Bernasconi and Dietmar Koenig.

Labayen Dance/SF appears at the Cowell Theater March 5 through 8, Thursday and Friday at 8pm, Saturday at 3 and 8pm, and Sunday at 3 and 7pm. Tickets are $20 for evening performances and $17 for matinees, $15 and $12.50 for students and seniors. For information, call 441-FMTS.

A WORLD OF MUSIC

World Arts West celebrates the Bay Area's exciting cultural mix with the fourth season of its "People Like Me" program for schoolchildren. Five performing arts troupes from Northern California present the dance and music of Russia, China, the Philippines, Mexico, and Brazil. This year marks the first time there are performances for the general public as well as school groups.

Performing are Ballet Folklorico Ensambles, The Nevá Russian Dance Ensemble, The Palabuniyan Kulintang Ensemble, Chinese Performing Artists of America, and Aluadomar Dance Company. Renowned educator and performing artist Daniel Giray is the show's featured narrator.

Ballet Folklorico Ensambles de San Francisco, under the direction of Amanda Almonte, has been bringing the folklore of Mexico to life since 1989. Adding a stylized touch to traditional dance, Ballet Folklorico has performed at major Bay Area festivals including the San Mateo County Fair, Oakland's Festival at the Lake, and the San Francisco Ethnic Dance Festival.

The Nevá Russian Dance Ensemble was founded in 1982 by a group of Russian Character Dance enthusiasts inspired by the work of choreographer Igor Moiseyev. The troupe, since 1985 resident dance company of the Russian Center of San Francisco, has toured extensively throughout the United States and the world.

Chinese Performing Artists of America (CPAA) is comprised of professional dancers, musicians, and martial arts experts from the Bay Area and abroad. CPAA's mission is to reflect the diversity and continue the traditions of Chinese culture.

The Palabuniyan Kulintang Ensemble specializes in the Kulintang music and dances of the southern Philippine Islands. The ensemble recently completed a two-week tour of Japan.

Inspired by the pulsating rhythms and dances of Brazil, Aluadomar Dance Company performs Samba de Roda, Samba-Reggae, Afro-Brazilian dance, and the Carnaval-style Samba Batucada. The core group of dancers has been thrilling audiences in California and Brazil for over a decade. Aluadomar produced the 1996 sold-out performance "Evolution: Brasil-Haiti" at the Cowell Theater in 1996.

Fort Mason Center resident group World Arts West works to promote dance and music that reflects the cultural mix of the United States. Be it Hawaiian or Appalachian, Irish or African American, World Arts West has brought every culture imaginable to Bay Area stages. Educational activities and cultural exchange programs seek to keep alive the artistic traditions of our roots. "People Like Me" is only one of several performance programs with this mission. The San Francisco Ethnic Dance Festival enters its twentieth year in 1998, and the World Drum Festival promises free outdoor fun coming up in the fall.

"People Like Me" runs March 17 through 27 at the Cowell Theater, with performances for school groups Tuesday through Friday at 10am and noon. For information, call 474-3914. Public performances are Friday at 7pm and Saturday at 2 and 5pm. Tickets are $8 in advance, $10 at the door. For information, call 441-FMTS.

REMEMBER...

The Bay Area Discovery Museum, in collaboration with the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, brings a unique and powerful touring exhibit to San Francisco. "Remember the Children, Daniel's Story" is an interactive learning experience, designed for children ages 8 and older, that introduces visitors to the life of a nine-year-old boy living through the Nazi terror from 1933 to 1945.

Incorporating actual photo albums and diaries, the story of Daniel—a fictional child based on the experiences of real children—tells the story of the Holocaust from a child's perspective. From the very beginning, the visitor is reassured that Daniel survives to tell his tale. The story starts at his home in Germany, moves to the Lodz Ghetto, and finally leads up to—but not through—the gates at Auschwitz. Throughout this journey, children and adults are encouraged to explore the various motifs that illustrate historical events in general and this one boy's life in particular.

"More than 1.5 million children died in the Holocaust," says Bonnie Pitman, Executive Director of the Bay Area Discovery Museum, "yet it is often not discussed because educators and parents are concerned that it is a disturbing topic for children. This exhibition addresses the Holocaust in an age-appropriate way, and provides a unique opportunity for young people to experience an important part of history and to reflect critically on their own beliefs, behavior, and responsibilities toward one another."

First opened in 1991 at the Museum of the City of New York, "Remember the Children" was installed as a permanent exhibit at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum upon its opening in 1993. The current San Francisco exhibit is the first leg of a four-year tour.

Several one-day presentations accompany this educational exhibit. Among these are hands-on art projects, movies about the Holocaust, lectures and panel discussions, and discussions of other examples of oppression—from slavery and the civil rights struggle to Japanese internment and immigration. Every other Wednesday and Sunday, survivors share their experiences and answer questions. For specific dates, see the calendar section.

Two related exhibitions appear elsewhere around San Francisco. "Varian Fry: Assignment Rescue, 1940-41" tells the story of a young New York editor who organizes an elaborate rescue network for people hoping to escape German-occupied France. The exhibit runs March 8 through April 30 in the main library's sixth-floor Skylight Gallery. For information, call 557-4277. Showing March 21 through May 24 in the Norse Auditorium at 135 Van Ness Avenue is "No More Scapegoats!" a combination of two exhibits that examine the Holocaust in relation to contemporary examples of discrimination. For information, call 751-6040.

"Remember the Children, Daniel's Story" runs March 1 through July 26, Tuesday through Friday from 1 to 4pm, Saturday and Sunday from 10am to 5pm at the Herbst International Exhibition Hall at Moraga and Montgomery Streets in the Presidio. (The Hall is a project of the Fort Mason Foundation.) Admission is free. School tours are available. For information, call 487-4398.

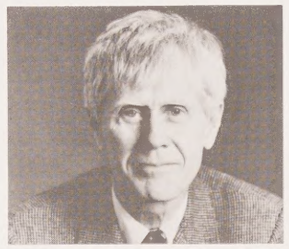
LITERARY LAURELS

The Bay Area Book Reviewers Association honors outstanding Northern California writers in its 17th annual awards ceremony. Authors working in children's literature, nonfiction, fiction, and poetry are acknowledged for their accomplishments.



Orville Schell

This event dates back to 1981, when Bay Area book reviewers first gathered to reward the work of local authors—an event leading to the creation of BABRA. At the heart of this organization was Fred Cody, founder and proprietor of Cody's Bookstore on Telegraph Avenue in Berkeley. When he passed away in 1983, the Association created an award in his name. The Fred Cody Award for lifetime achievement has since been bestowed on authors such as Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Jessica Mitford, Wright Morris, M.F.K. Fisher, Gary Snyder, Alice Walker, and Wallace Stegner.

The Fred Cody Award recipient this year is Maxine Hong Kingston, author of China Men, The Woman Warrior, and Tripmaster Monkey. Born in Stockton and educated at the University of California, Berkeley, Kingston currently lives in Oakland. In addition to honoring her writing accomplishments, the Association recognizes her long literary and humanitarian work with Vietnam war veterans.

Also being honored this year is Poetry Flash, the literary calendar and review currently celebrating its 25th anniversary. Orville Schell, renowned China scholar and UC Berkeley Journalism Department Chair, is keynote speaker.

The 17th Annual BABRA Awards take place March 30, Monday at 7:30pm in the Cowell Theater. Tickets are $12, $8 for seniors and students. A dessert and beverage reception follows at 9pm. For information, call (510) 525-5476.

IT'S AN IRISH THING

Seventh Annual Celtic Music and Arts Festival Martin Hayes and Dennis Cahill

For six years, thousands of people of all ethnic backgrounds have celebrated Irish culture at the Celtic Music and Arts Festival. This friendly event invites "participatory cultural immersion" through music, dancing, and educational workshops in Irish traditions.

The seventh annual festival features two days of stellar music and song by leading Celtic musicians playing both traditional and contemporary music. Hailing from County Clare—"the womb of Irish traditional music"—are the Josephine Marsh band, Catherine McEvoy, Mary McNamara, and Mary Custy. Musical legend Donal Lunny appears in the United States for the first time since 1988, accompanied by Nollaig Casey and Maire Breathnach on fiddle, Ray Fean on drums, John McSherry on pipes, Sharon Shannon on accordion, and Fionn O'Loughlin on bass. Lunny has been at the cutting edge of Irish music for nearly thirty years.

Also appearing are Martin Hayes ("the best fiddler of his generation"), Dublin-based KíLA, Wendy MacIsaac and Gordie Sampson, Beginish, and The Kennelly Dancers.

Complementing the musical offerings are a Celtic marketplace, traditional food and beverages, folk dancing, and youth activities. Workshops on Saturday feature Catherine McEvoy on flute and Martin Hayes on fiddle; Elgy Gillespie discusses Irish literature. Sunday's classes are led by Mary MacNamara (concertina) and Wendy MacIsaac (fiddle). All workshops take place in the Firehouse.

The Seventh Annual Celtic Music and Arts Festival takes place March 7 and 8, Saturday and Sunday from noon to 9pm in the Festival Pavilion. Tickets are $15 in advance, $20 at the door, and $12 for seniors. Children under 14 are admitted free. For information, call 392-4400.

ARTISTS AND ARTISANS

The Contemporary Crafts Market, considered by many to be one of the West Coast's top decorative and functional art fairs, returns to San Francisco with more than 350 artists displaying and selling their work.

Featured this year are glass workers Ingrid and Ken Hanson, ceramicist Laurel Marinelli, and jeweler Gail Goldin. The Hansons, inspired by Murano glass, combine classical forms with contemporary colors and patterns. All pieces are hand-blown. Marinelli, who has been a ceramic artist for more than 25 years, gains much of her inspiration from nature. Hand-thrown and embellished with whimsical sculptural elements, her pieces feature colorful pastels of lizards, frogs, fish, or other animals. Goldin crafts silver good-luck charms incorporating stones and other materials. She has run her Studio City-based business for 14 years.

With more than 300 other craftsmen and women offering furnishings and photography, paintings and woodwork and sculpture, the Contemporary Crafts Market can satisfy an almost endless variety of tastes. A special exhibition shows works created by Bay Area artists.

Several lectures and presentations enhance the Market's educational value. Woodworker Doug Nielsen discusses the art of creating furniture, lamps, and mirrors by combining wood with other materials such as stone and metal, on Saturday, March 14. The following day, artist Gil Harrison shares his experiences working as set designer for the television series "Star Trek: Voyager." Both lectures begin at 1:30pm.

On opening night, March 13, Friday at 7:30pm, a drawing decides who wins a $500 shopping spree. Additional door prizes are awarded Sunday.

The Contemporary Crafts Market takes place March 13 through 15, Friday from 2 to 8pm, Saturday and Sunday from 10am to 6pm in the Herbst and Festival Pavilions. Admission is $5, free for children under 12. A special $3 preview takes place March 13, Friday from 10am to 2pm. For information, call 995-4925.

OSCAR NIGHT GALA

For 18 years, the Academy of Friends has thrown a party on Academy Awards night to raise funds for HIV and AIDS organizations. Now the second largest Oscar party in the country, this gala event has raised more than $1.6 million in its history. Fully 100% of ticket sales go directly to this year's eight Bay Area beneficiaries.

Attendees are treated to cuisine from San Francisco's finest restaurants, plus fine wine and catering from Jardiniére, Mecca, Paula LeDuc Catering, Joseph Phelps, and Sonoma Cutrer. The dance floor opens directly following the big-screen telecast of the Academy Awards ceremony.

The 18th Annual Academy of Friends Oscar Night Gala takes place March 23, Monday from 5:30pm to midnight in the Festival Pavilion. Tickets are $125. For information, call 252-0713.

THE BRITS

The San Francisco Craft and Folk Art Museum presents two new exhibits of contemporary British artists working in clay and wood. "British Potters: Dixon Long Collection" samples 20th-century British ceramics from a private Bay Area collection. "Bert Marsh: British Woodturner" traces the development of this cabinetmaker-cum-wood artist.

British Potters: Dixon Long Collection Glazed stoneware pitcher by John Maltby.

British Potters: Dixon Long Collection
This informal overview of the development of British ceramics since 1920 presents the works of more than a dozen ceramic artists. Collected by San Anselmo residents Dixon and Ruthanne Long, the exhibit does not purport to give a complete representation of this art form, but offers a sampling of its main influences and themes over the last seven decades.

The collection includes works by Bernard Leach, his son David, and grandson John. The senior Leach emerged on the scene after the first World War, going on to influence successive generations of ceramicists. His widow, Janet, continues to work the same kiln in St. Ives, Cornwall, that he did. Other proteges or admirers of his work are included in the exhibit—Michael Cardew, Michael Casson, Geoffrey Whiting, Ray Finch, and Henry Hammond, to name a few.

After World War II, a defining influence in British pottery emerged in the person of Lucie Rie. A native of Austria, Rie became known for her unusual and colorful glazes. Another important figure at this time, German-born Hans Coper, turned simple geometric forms into elegant creations. Rie and Coper worked together until his death in 1961, leaving a lasting influence on the art form (Rie died in 1995). One of Coper's students, Elizabeth Fritsch, has gained a significant reputation.

Contemporary artists are setting out on paths of their own. While some, like Richard Batterham and Phil Rogers, continue in the Leach tradition, others are busily exploring new technical possibilities and reworking more classical themes. More than a half-dozen contemporary artists are represented in this show.

Bert Marsh: British Woodturner
The upstairs gallery keeps in the British theme by showcasing the talents of this woodworking artist. A cabinetmaker all his life—he apprenticed at age thirteen—Marsh turned to more abstract endeavors after a heart attack in 1979. Until that time, he had progressed from cabinetmaking to teaching at the Brighton College of Art, but after a series of surgeries it became clear he could no longer teach. Using the woodturning shop set up in his home, he decided to experiment with new aesthetic approaches he had been developing.

Since then, his designs have won much praise and many awards, including two gold and two silver medals at the Woodworker Show at Wembley. In 1985, he had his first one-man show at Hove Museum and Art Gallery. He has become widely known for his natural-edge wooden bowls and his ability to turn the wood while it is still green. Still, after all this praise and official recognition, Marsh continues to consider himself a craftsman, not an artist.

"British Potters" and "Bert Marsh" open March 21 and run through May 31 at the San Francisco Craft and Folk Art Museum, Landmark Building A. An opening reception takes place March 25, Wednesday from 5 to 7pm. For information, call 775-0990.

Whether you are planning a large convention or trade show, a small meeting, or anything in between, Fort Mason Center's spectacular setting and reasonable rental rates make it an outstanding location for all events and activities. A professional staff accommodates your needs with an eye for detail and an attitude of excellence in personal and public service.

The CONFERENCE CENTER is conveniently located near the entrance to Fort Mason Center, commanding a magnificent view of the Marina and Golden Gate. This beautiful, fully carpeted facility totals more than 4,000 square feet. It includes one large room, with seating capacity of 300, a mid-size room for up to 80 people, and one breakout room with a seating capacity of 20.

CONFERENCE and MEETING ROOMS are easily adapted to whatever audio, visual, or seating set-up you need. An 8' x 16' stage is provided in the main room, and linen service is available.

Located at the northeast border of Fort Mason Center, the FIREHOUSE offers charming carpeted rooms, with track lighting and beautiful views of Alcatraz Island and the Bay. The large room seats 125; a smaller adjoining room seats 24. A space in the rear may be used as an additional breakout or service area.

The HERBST and FESTIVAL PAVILIONS are major exhibit and special event clear-span facilities for up to 5,000 people. The Pavilions are 35,000 and 50,000 square feet respectively, and are also available for trade shows, corporate receptions, and large fund-raising events.

The COWELL THEATER, with seating for 440, is fully equipped with sound and lighting systems, VIP dressing rooms and a projection/control booth. Situated at the north end of the Herbst Pavilion, with spectacular views of the Bay and the Golden Gate Bridge from the lobby area, the theater is suitable for performances, film showings, press conferences, lectures, meetings and seminars.

The twelve MEETING and ACTIVITY ROOMS throughout the site accommodate from 5 to 99 participants at very reasonable rates. They are ideal for meetings, classes, rehearsals, retreats and seminars, or as breakout rooms for activities in other Fort Mason Center facilities.
